

Summary

- As a versatile Full Stack Web Developer, I bring a holistic approach to software development, with expertise in both frontend and backend technologies. With a strong foundation in HTML, CSS, and JavaScript, coupled with proficiency in frameworks such as React and Angular, I excel in crafting responsive and intuitive user interfaces. On the backend, I am skilled in Node.js and Python, adept at building scalable and efficient server-side applications. Leveraging my experience with databases, including SQL and NoSQL, I ensure seamless data management and integration. My ability to work across the entire development stack allows me to deliver end-to-end solutions that meet both user needs and business objectives..
