Objective

I am a dedicated professional with a strong background in C++ programming and a passion for software development. With prior experience in the prestigious DRDO in the R&D sector, I have honed my skills in solving complex problems and delivering innovative solutions. My current focus is on the exciting area of cloud computing development, where I thrive on designing and implementing scalable solutions to meet modern business needs. Additionally, my proficiency in Qt combined with my extensive C++ experience, enables me to develop robust and efficient applications. I am committed to staying at the forefront of technology and continually expanding my skill set. If you are looking for a versatile software developer who can excel in challenging projects, feel free to connect with me.
